

HK20030029

Physiological Studies.

1. A study should be made of the relative increase in physical fitness of smokers and non-smokers (adequately described) and matched for age, sex etc on a standardized training regime continued to a definite plateau stage.